Guide co-produced by staff and patients with appreciation to Swindon & Gloucestershire Mind and St Mungo's Bath for shared content

Introduction

The Avon and Wiltshire Mental Health Partnership (AWP) has a strong Involvement team of which we are proud of. The quality of the projects they consistently co-produce and the professional execution continues to impress us and we thank them for providing this valuable resource, which we hope you will find useful.

This guide, designed in response to the COVID-19 global pandemic, is laid out to clearly and easily to help you identify where you can find support, advise you of changes to services and let you know what you can expect.

Stay safe in these difficult times, look after yourselves and please, reach out for help should you need it.

Service changes

How we've changed to keep patients, staff and the public safe during the COVID-19:

Community-Based Services

To protect our patients and staff during the coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak, and comply with the Government direction to stay at home, most out-patient appointments are being carried out via telephone or Skype.

Services have reduced face-to-face visits as much as possible to reduce the risk of transferring the virus. Where it is felt to be essential to carry out a face-to-face visit, patients and carers can expect that staff may well be attending in protective clothing such as face masks and gloves.

This can seem a little frightening at first, but is very important to keep everyone safe. You may want to prepare yourself in advance for this, as it's important to look after yourself. We appreciate that it may take a while for everyone to adapt to these new measures and apologise if this causes you initial distress.

Please remember that we are all open and are here to talk, giving help and advice at this very difficult time for everybody.

Inpatient Wards

- Visitors –In line with national Guidelines we have a No Visitor restriction (apart from exceptional circumstances*), as a proactive measure to prevent the further spread of COVID-19.

 An exceptional circumstance cannot be precisely defined, but an example would be visits to those who are on the end of life pathway.*

- Leave - It is currently advised that ALL s17 leave be minimised to that which is absolutely essential and as far as is possible to support the population wide guidance on social distancing.

Restricted Visiting to all Wards – This may change at short notice to No
Visiting – Please
Check with Ward

Coping with the COVID-19 outbreak

During these uncertain times, you may be feeling stressed and anxious, but there are many positive ways in which you can help yourself to cope.

Helpful Tips

- Try to stick to a daily routine (set a time to wake, go to bed), eat healthily and stay hydrated.
- Maintain contact with your support networks, where possible, through phone, e-mail and video calling, as these relationships are really important to feeling connected.
- Limit the amount of time listening to COVID-19 updates to once a day.
- Check updates from trustworthy sources:
 - Public Health England <https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/coronavirus-COVID-19-list-of-guidance>
 - UK Government <https://www.gov.uk/coronavirus>
 - World Health Organisation (WHO) <https://www.who.int/emergencies/diseases/novel-coronavirus-2019>
- Do things you enjoy and plan some self-care into your daily routine. You could use the opportunity to do/try new things - one new thing each day. Bake, craft, take a walk, try a yoga or mindfulness app, so you are keeping busy. Maybe keep a diary of achievements to share with others and help reduce isolation.
- Use exercise to go outside, breathe the fresh air, take a break and split up your day.
- Avoid smoking and drugs, and try not to drink too much alcohol, as it can be easy to fall into unhelpful behaviours.

Coronavirus

Wash your hands more often

 Coronavirus is a serious illness that can make you very ill.

 The best way to not catch it is to wash your hands more often for 20 seconds.

 Use soap and water or a hand sanitiser when you:

- Get home or into work
- Blow your nose, sneeze or cough
- Eat or touch food

5 Ways to Wellbeing

The 5 Ways to Wellbeing are simple and proven actions that can help people find balance, build resilience and boost mental health and wellbeing.

The 5 Ways to Wellbeing are:

Connect - There is strong evidence that indicates that feeling close to, and valued by, other people is a fundamental human need and one that contributes to functioning well in the world.

Be active - Regular physical activity is associated with lower rates of depression and anxiety across all age groups. It doesn't need to be particularly intense for you to feel good - slower-paced activities, such as walking, can have the same benefit.

Take notice - Being aware of what is taking place in the present directly enhances your well-being and savouring 'the moment' can help to reaffirm your life priorities. Heightened awareness also enhances your self-understanding and allows you to make positive choices based on your own values and motivations.

Learn - Continued learning enhances self-esteem and encourages social interaction and a more active life. The practice of setting goals, which is related to adult learning in particular, has been strongly associated with higher levels of wellbeing.

Give - Individuals who report a greater interest in helping others are more likely to rate themselves as happy. Committing an act of kindness once a week over a six-week period is associated with an increase in wellbeing.

During this time, it's also important to keep safe; individually, in our homes or within wards, and as part of the wider community. So we've added some additional information about this too.

Keeping Safe - Information and guidance on Coronavirus (COVID-19), as well as knowledge of local and national support services, can help establish a sense of safety and help aid resilience during the outbreak.

5 Ways to Wellbeing

We've collated a range of ideas that you might find helpful to your health and wellbeing whilst having to spend more time isolated (due to COVID-19) over the next few pages.

Be mindful that these are general signposting links, so may not be helpful for everyone.

Mobile apps

Coronavirus Support (UK)

An app that helps you cope with the Coronavirus pandemic. It covers everything from general health advice to managing everyday practical problems and improving your mental health.

Stay Alive

Enables people to create their own safety plans which are accessible on their phones, has advice and tips about managing suicidal thoughts and ideas for grounding techniques and 'reasons to stay alive'. Provides easier access to crisis plans.

Gratitude Garden

Intended to help you maintain the gratitude practice of noting down three good things that have happened each day.

Be reminded of the good things in life by writing them down.

Headspace

Everyday mindfulness and meditation for stress, anxiety, sleep, focus, and more.

Free introductory sessions, but for full content a subscription is required.

Mind Shift

Aimed to help you learn how to relax, develop more helpful ways of thinking, and identify active steps that will help you take charge of your anxiety.

An app for all ages.

Calm Harm

Offers several ideas for activities to try to manage urges to self-harm, this includes suggestions in the following areas:

Comfort, distract, express emotions, release, random and breathe. Each category gives a long list of suggestions and examples of techniques.

Hub of Hope

National mental health database which brings together organisations and charities from across the country, who offer mental health advice and support, all in one place.

Cove

Improve your mental health by making music on this simple app, which encourages self expression through sounds instead of words.

SAM

Self-help for Anxiety Management is better known as SAM, and SAM is designed to help you learn more about your anxiety, build your own anxiety toolkit, and tailor your self-help to your own life.

DistrACT

Contains information about self-harm and suicidal thoughts, self help strategies, a 'chill-zone' and details about available services and support - both local and national. Also, know what to do in a crisis or emergency.

Colouring Book for Adults

Lots of creative pages to colour, ranging from florals, fantasy, birds, mandalas, animals, doodles, pixels and more. A great distraction tool and you can even share your artwork with friends.

Stop, Breathe & Think

A friendly app to guide people through meditations for mindfulness and compassion, intended to help users cope with stress, anxiety, depression, and insomnia.

Lots of free content including a series on 'Calm Coronavirus Anxiety'.

Helpful ways to cope with COVID-19

Service user and carer comments

"I have learnt to chat to friends via video call on WhatsApp and although I was a bit scared of the technology at first, it's made me feel so much more connected to friends again."

"I've found journaling a really good way to decompress at the end of the day - especially if it has been particularly challenging. I write down all the things that have happened that might have caused me to feel stressed, but also write down some things I've done well, and something I'm grateful for. It means I end the day on a positive note but also can look back over the days and realise what I have achieved. I don't beat myself up if I don't have the energy to do this every day though!"

"Make sure there is time every day for yourself - however short. It could be a bubble bath, 20 minutes of reading, some exercise (I've been really enjoying yoga with Adriene on YouTube - you can choose the length of session you do so it fits around your schedule) or just a chance to have a hot cup of tea."

"I have been joining the other people that I live with to do some fun dance and exercise routines - it has been good fun!"

"I've been doing the little things around the house that I've been avoiding. It's a great distraction and feels really productive."

"Being kind and compassionate to myself is really important. If I'm feeling exhausted and I need a day in bed just to rest my body and mind I remind myself that 'this really is OK' every now and then, as it's important to look after myself".

"I've started to use the Gratitude Garden App, to record 3 things a day that I'm grateful for. It helps me focus on the positives things in my life, despite COVID-19. When I'm having a bad day I can use it to remind me of the things I'm grateful for and this can really help shift my mindset."

"It's been really helpful to maintain regular structure in my day, including a variety of activities to avoid boredom."

"I have been exercising daily with people I live with - it has been nice to get outside and enjoy the sunshine."

"I've found fresh air, natural light and the peacefulness of nature beneficial to maintaining a good mood."

"To keep myself busy I am going out on my bike every morning when it is quieter - This helps me to clear my head."

"I've been really strict about sleep hygiene and especially not checking/watching the news at least 1-2 hours before bedtime. It means there's less chance my head is full of worries when I actually try to sleep."

Living in the moment

If you only carry one thing throughout your entire life, let it be hope. Let it be hope that better things are always ahead. Let it be hope that you can get through even the toughest of times. Let it be hope that you are stronger than any challenge that comes your way. Let it be hope that you are exactly where you are meant to be right now, and that you are on the path to where you are meant to be... Because during these times, hope will be the very thing that carries you through.

- NIKKI BANAS

If you want to conquer the anxiety of life, live in the moment, live in the breath.

Amit Ray

YOU CANNOT STOP THE WAVES, BUT YOU CAN LEARN TO SURF.

JON KABAT-ZINN

Daily challenge

Choose ONE to do per day:

- Spend 10 minutes gently stretching your body
- Write a letter to someone where you can only be positive
- Write a love letter to yourself
- Create a portrait of someone famous but only using dots
- Close your eyes and try to draw the room you are in without opening them
- Write down three things that you are grateful for
- Write a guide to keep others from being bored in lockdown - what would you advise?
- Write a poem where each line starts with a letter of your name
- Have a spring clean and de-clutter
- Write down 5 things about yourself that you love
- Telephone or email someone who might be lonely/need cheering up
- Spend 5 minutes drawing a self portrait, then another 5 minutes doing it with the other hand!
- Can you spot something in your surroundings beginning with each letter of the alphabet?
- Pick a random letter of the alphabet and list as many animals starting with that letter in a minute as you can
- Send positive/encouraging text messages to 5 people
- Re-write the lyrics to your favourite song to make it about something mundane - like re-writing Bohemian Rhapsody to be about your sandwich!
- Go to bed 1 hour earlier than usual
- Go a whole day without complaining!
- Make a list of short term goals
- Do one thing you have been putting off
- Create a positive affirmation and repeat it to yourself all day
- Spend 5 minutes focusing on your breathing only
- Write a list of all the positives from the last month
- Declutter your emails and social media accounts
- Think of your own items to add to this list!
- Start a journal or doodle diary
- Think of a new challenge for yourself for the year ahead
- Complete a puzzle or wordsearch <https://freeprintablepuzzles.co.uk/>
- Write your own short story about a jungle adventure
- Create a piece of art - use rubbish/recycling, household objects, the more creative the better!

Mindfulness

A mindful cup of tea (or coffee!)

An exercise in everyday mindfulness

Have you ever noticed that you are so lost in thought that you don't pay attention to what you are actually doing?

This autopilot can mean we spend a lot of time in our heads, planning or worrying about the future, or ruminating on the past. One way to become more present is to bring mindfulness to everyday things. For example, a cup of tea.

Exercise:

Notice the sound of the kettle boiling. Watch the tea steep, the colours change. Notice the aromas. Take your time. Add milk (if you like it) and observe. Bring the cup slowly to your mouth, notice the warmth of the cup against your skin.

Really take the time to taste the tea, savour the flavour as if you were tasting it for the first time.

If your mind wanders, that's ok, just bring it gently back to the tea when you notice this.
